

My Goal Is Simple: For you to be happy. Since 1998, I have been working to make it as easy and economical as possible for eye doctors and practitioners to purchase pre-owned ophthalmic equipment that is reliable, works like new and can save up to 50% off the price of new! Unless you require the technology of a brand-new product, it does not make good business sense in today's market to spend the extra money.

Your practice is full of them: Take a look around your practice. All the ophthalmic instruments in your practice are used.

Avoid buying new equipment: New equipment depreciates as soon as you get it into your office. Like a new car depreciates about 20% as soon as you drive it off the lot.

You should buy pre-owned, refurbished equipment when:

1. When the unit is starting to make funny noises or sometimes works and other times doesn't.
2. When your staff complains about the fuzzy screen, the buttons that are not pushing and stops printing. You get the message.
3. When you don't have what you need to offer your patients more services, care, and solutions.

4. When you are losing money referring the patient to the other doctor down the street.

Used vs Refurbished:

Many equipment companies buy used stuff that's been sitting around in storage or on its last leg, check that it turns on and resell it. In contrast, we purchase equipment that is no longer needed, our factory-trained technicians inspect it thoroughly and repair and replace parts to factory specs

. As a result, you get diagnostic and surgical equipment that's refurbished, reconditioned and reliable that will last long after the warranty expires
